How does it work?

4. Why does Amazon require 7 day a week access to Host?

Because our customers want to receive their packages 7 days/wk and we need to be able to deliver to them 7 days/wk. Lockers are a core part of Amazon's broader strategy to achieve 2-day, 1-day or even same-day delivery for as many customers and as many products as possible. This is a benefit for our hosts in that it means Amazon will be working intentionally to direct more and more customers to ship packages to the host's Locker. But it also means carriers and customers need to have access to the Locker 7 days per week.

7. Do I need to increase my insurance policy to Host an Amazon Locker?

The buyer of the location would need to confirm that they are willing to agree and operate under the terms of Amazon's Location Agreement. If they are, we would then request a W9 from the new owner and would go to Amazon's legal team to request a "transfer of ownership" where they would establish the new owner as a party to the agreement. If the purchasing party cannot agree to our terms, the Locker would then be removed.

9. How long am I expected to host a Locker?

it is possible for stores to generate fake, high scoring reviews. iirc some ways you can tell are:

I don't order unless some of the reviews have pictures, but it could also be a new item. Also, no negative reviews can be a red flag. Check the store, sort their products by order amount and check if the reviews seem legit.
