Now our hand is "10 or 20", a soft 20.

Regarding how much ACX narrators can make, if you choose the per-finished-hour route, I've found quite a few reliable references that put pay at about $100 per finished audio hour. I also found a good thread on Reddit where people who are doing it discuss their experiences, and the information there seems to confirm the pay rate.

One thing to keep in mind is a finished audio hour doesn't simply mean an hour of reading as some of what you have recorded may require editing and that can take time as well. It's best to figure that it will take over an hour to create an hour of finished audio!

Here's what Amazon has posted about narrating books through ACX:

"Choose the books you want to audition for! Through ACX, you can find an unlimited number of potential acting gigs, and the audiobooks you produce will be available on Audible, Amazon, and iTunes.

Share royalties from sales with the Rights Holder.

On ACX, an Audiobook Narrator is Also an Audiobook Producer.

Step 3. How do you want to get paid? Choose a per-finished-hour rate, or choose to share 50% of royalties. If you're unsure, choose both.
