"Dumping a game, as referred to in this case, is a method used by a dealer that is outside the normal procedures and rules of the game to fraudulently bene fit the player," the investigator wrote in court documents. "

A casino manager had asked for a review of Yu's tips from two days "due to the amount she received," investigators wrote in court documents. The gaming control board alleges Yu did not collect losing wagers from a player, but " waited until [he] won to pay [him] out on four occasions, " the i nvestigators wrote in court documents.

When the investigator talked to Yu, "[she] seemed to be visibly upset and d enied any wrongdoing.

Metro police pulled over a driver who was in a vehicle registered in Yu's na me on Tuesday, they said.

Officers took her to jail on a charge of cheating in a gambling establishment. Judge Diana Sullivan released Yu on her own recognizance on Wednesday.
