2013 saw the introduction of numerous cosmetic changes, this related mainly to licensing procedures as well as numerous new advertising standards.

This would include regulations on land based casinos and also the proposal to create a national board of gaming to properly regulate operators.

How to get paid on TikTok

2. Score sponsorships

The process could work in a few ways. Maybe the company sends you a free product, like a dog toy, and asks you to mention it in one of your TikTok videos. Or maybe you agree to plug the toy, but only if the company also throws in some cash. Note that branded content must be disclosed in some way, typically through a hashtag in the description, such as ad or sponsored.

Search for and follow TikTokers who are interested in jewelry and engage with their posts. TikTok will likely feed you more of the same content from similar TikTokers.

Then, when you start posting, your content likely will be seen by the exact audience you want: people who like jewelry.

To that same point, try to be yourself. "Don't be fake," Rietdyk says, adding that "TikTokers can tell if you're doing something just for a 'like'."

Like with any social media presence, she says, serving your audience should be your No. 1 priority. "That's when people will be attracted and want to follow you," she says.
