The most common football pool is the standard 100 square football pool.

This pool is built around a simple chart calls for no skill or previous knowledge of how to bet the spread or of the game of football in general.

How a 100 square football pool works is very simple.

Whoever the party host or pool host may be creates at 10 squares by 10 squares chart; this is numbered on each axis from 0-9.

The pool host will then try to sell each square on the chart, usually ranging from $5-$100, depending on the type of clientele buying the squares.

Having the squares 0 and 7 would not help because it would be assigned to the wrong teams.

Usually the total money is divided by 5, and is paid out as follows:
