In The whole, we make good a lot.

In other words, you have the opportunity to make a bet "FOR" a given event to happen and a bet "AGAINST", meaning that the event won't happen.

Every user in the sports betting exchange has the opportunity to offer odds.

Thus, you can find a lot higher odds in these betting exchanges in comparison with the same markets within online bookmakers that have fixed odds.

It's important to note that all odds have to be matched by another player so that both bets can be active.

The fact that they are unlike regular betting sites and that they offer more flexibility when it comes down to the odds makes these sports betting exchanges appealing to punters.

At the very least, they would want to have a licence so that they can appear as trustworthy to their players.
