Such is the principle of sports betting, particularly at online bookmakers. An executive, non-departmental public body of the UK Government, the Commission is responsible for regulating and supervising gambling - including keeping gambling fair and safe for all, and ensuring that bettors' winnings will be paid without abuse.

There are many factors to take into account when evaluating this criteria. It is important that the top sports are covered but also those that aren't quite so popular but are good to bet on.

Here are some of the most frequently asked questions.

Point Spread Basics

In an Under wager, the player bets that the total points scored by the two teams will be less than the total.

The underdog teams receive more points.

All point spreads use half points, eliminating the possibility of a tie.

This wager is offered for the entire current season.

The odds fluctuate during the season, but are locked in at the time the wagers are placed.

Off-the-Board Teasers

The players can select 6, 6 1/2, 7, 10 and 14-point Teasers.
